

Let Siri do the tapping.

Instead of hunting for the right button, just talk. Siri can call people, set reminders, and answer questions — all by voice.

SET UP • ONE TIME First, switch Siri on

You only do this part once. A family member or helper can sit beside you and do it with you.

- 1 Open Settings
The gray icon shaped like gears.
- 2 Tap Siri
It may read “Apple Intelligence & Siri.” Scroll to find it.
- 3 Turn on “Listen for ‘Hey Siri’”
Say the short phrases it asks, so it learns your voice.
- 4 Then say “Hey Siri” to wake it
Or press and hold the side button, then speak.

- ✓ You can’t break anything. If Siri pops up by mistake, just stay quiet or tap the screen — it goes away.

Just say it out loud.

START WITH “HEY SIRI” Then try these

Say “Hey Siri,” wait for the sound, then ask. A few favorites:

“Call my daughter.”

Any name saved in your phone works.

“FaceTime my son.”

See their face, not just hear their voice.

“Remind me to take my pills at 8.”

Siri will nudge you at the right time.

“Set a timer for 20 minutes.”

Perfect for the oven or the laundry.

“Text Sara I’m running late.”

Say the message out loud; Siri sends it.

“What’s the weather today?”

Ask the time, a date, a word — anything.

If Siri gets it wrong, just say it again, a little slower. There’s no harm in trying twice.
