

Make the whole screen bigger.

This magnifies everything on the screen at once — every app, every menu, all together. Apple calls it Full Screen Zoom.

SET UP • ONE TIME Switch it on

Best set up with a helper the first time — it uses three-finger taps you'll want to practice.

- 1 Open Settings, then Accessibility*
Two taps to get started.
- 2 Tap Zoom, then turn it on
The big switch at the top turns green.
- 3 Tap Zoom Region, choose Full Screen Zoom*
This magnifies the entire screen.
- 4 Turn on the Zoom Controller*
A button to move around with. Optional, but it helps a lot.

- ✓ You can't break anything. A three-finger double-tap turns it off any time.

Zoom in, move around.

EVERY DAY Using Full Screen Zoom

The whole screen grows, so the main thing to learn is moving around it.

Turn it on with three fingers.

Double-tap the screen with three fingers. Do it again to turn it off.

Move around with three fingers.

Drag with three fingers to slide the magnified screen in any direction.

Make it bigger or smaller.

Triple-tap with three fingers, then drag the Zoom Level slider.

Or use the Controller button.

Drag the floating button to move around; tap it to open the menu.

Keep the keyboard clear.

In Zoom settings, turn on “Smart Typing” so typing stays easy to see.

Everything’s bigger, so you’ll move around more — the Controller button makes that easy.
